

Transferred names in Hungary

Transferred names form a special subcategory among secondary toponyms. These are already existing place names that were transferred from one place to another in connection with the migration of inhabitants. The paper discusses the background of transferred names that could contribute to the marginality of this name giving method. Additionally, it provides a critical overview of the names categorized as transferred names in Hungarian onomastics from Medieval times to the 20th century.

Keywords: transferred names, Hungarian toponyms, critical overview

KATALIN RESZEGI